European Digital Innovation Hubs Network

Driving the EU's digital transformation

In the heart of Europe's digital revolution lies the European Digital Innovation Hubs (EDIH) Network.

A dynamic, pan-European community of experts on a mission to reshape the digital landscape for small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and public sector organisations (PSOs).

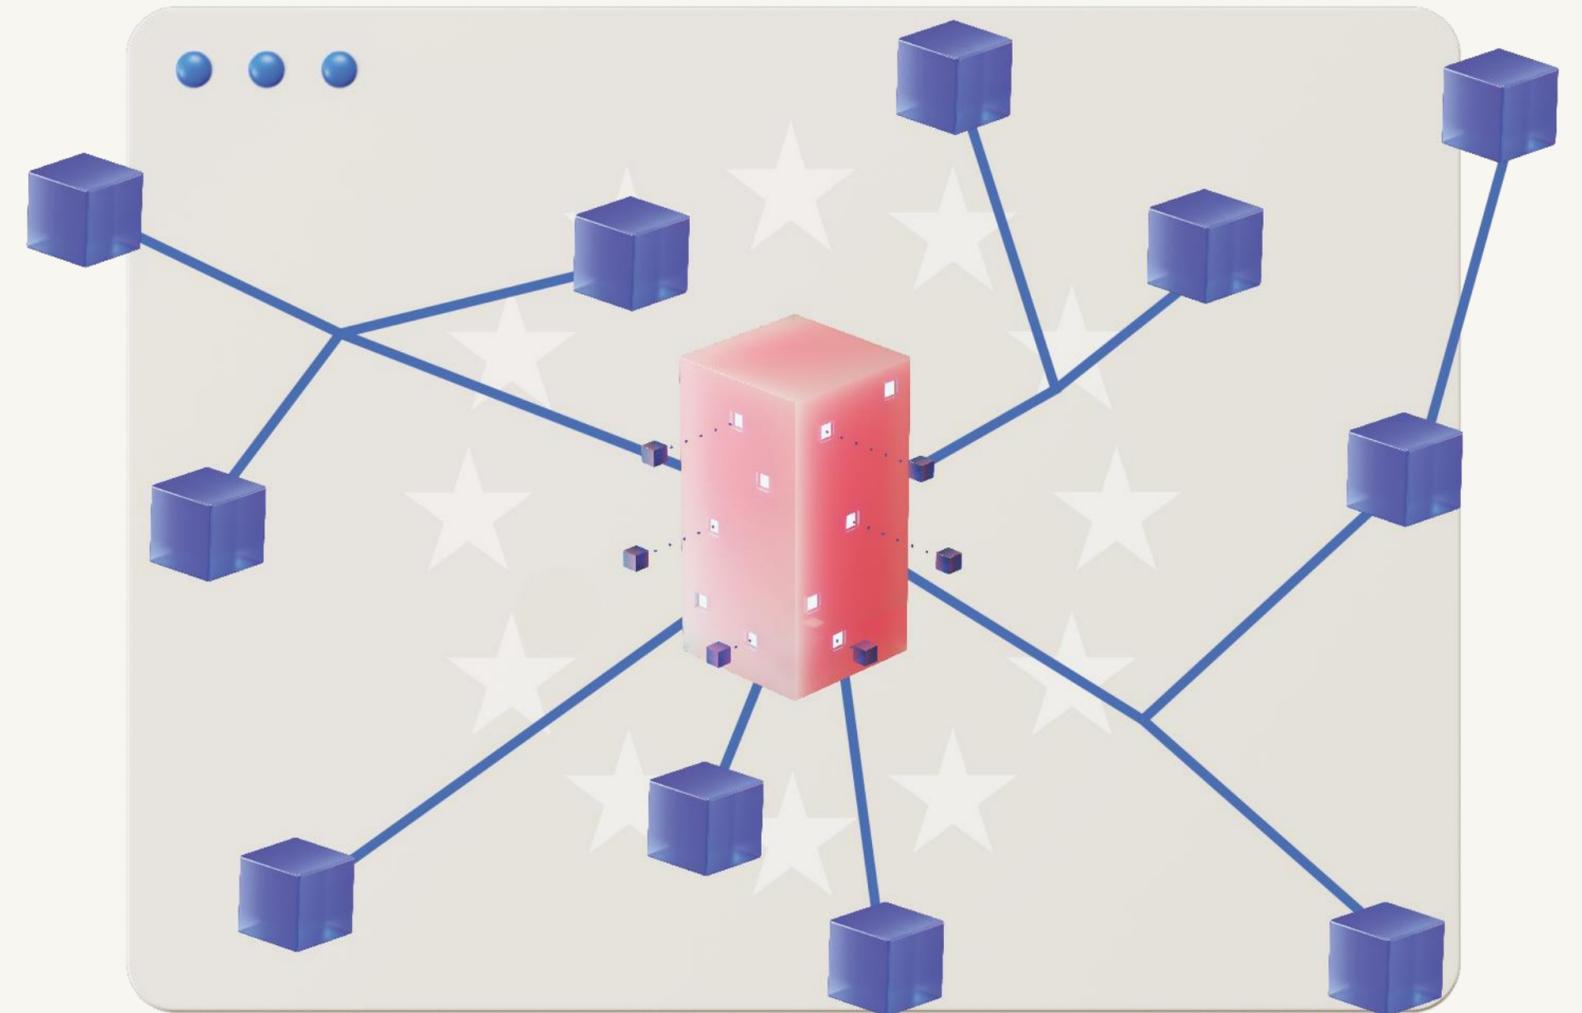

EDIHs stand as beacons of digital knowledge, charting the course for SMEs to navigate the swiftly changing currents of today's tech-driven world.

By tapping into the potential of digitalisation, businesses stand ready to improve their production processes, boost their efficiency, and outpace their competition.

The EDIH Network's commitment goes beyond digital prowess.

It's rooted in a conscious, responsible approach to delivering services that nurture environmental sustainability.

With the European Commission at the helm, this endeavour unites more than 200 digital innovation hubs (EDIHs), strategically distributed across EU Member States, as well as Iceland, Liechtenstein, and Norway.
